Puzzability, based in New York, includes Mike Shenk, who has written puzzles for Games magazine and its offshoots, and provided daily crosswords for a major newspaper syndicate. He is currently the crossword editor of The Wall Street Journal; Amy Goldstein, a trivia buff and wordsmith who has served as associate editor and managing editor for Games magazine and its sister publications; and Robert Leighton, an illustrator, writer, New Yorker cartoonist, and creator of unique visual puzzles.

Bought this for my son who loves puzzles and all sorts of mind benders. There isn't anything fancy about this little calendar, other than the fact that he really enjoyed working out the puzzles. He might have preferred them in a book format since he "cheated" and flipped through the calendar solving the puzzles instead of doing them "one a day" as the calendar was designed... But I can't fault the product for that :)

Every year my husband ask me to get this for Christmas. It's very fun to solve the puzzles.

I gave this this calendar as a Christmas gift to my husband for his desk at work. He really enjoys it and every day all his coworkers try to solve the mind Bender.

It is all loose pegs in a plastic sleeve. Very cool. No messy tears.

I thought this would be a fun thing, but each month they have the same puzzles with just a different theme. Not nearly as fun as I thought it would be.

It's like the same 7 puzzles on repeat and they aren't very good ones...

My nine year old loves this! Yes it's hard, but we work on these as a family and he loves that best!

boring...same puzzles over & over like 5 different kinds over & over
