First, let me say that I played the recorder from age 6-18 and have recently picked it up again after 30 years of not playing. I like the great collection of patriotic tunes in this book, which for me, as a "re-beginner", are easy enough to play. I also like the big print and the fact that you don't have to turn pages while playing. However, I would not recommend this book as a self-teaching tool for total beginners. It seems more suitable for a player who has mastered the basics and is looking for easy practice material.

If you are looking for Patriotic Recorder songs, you may want to look at the (It is recorder time!) Holiday Songbook for Recorder, by Morton Manus. For about $.50 more you get many if not all of the same music, plus music for Christmas and many other holidays. Compare the two tables of contents to see what I am talking about. :)
