Karabakh: The Secret Garden

Synopsis

A photographic portrait of the country of the impossible. A little known part of Armenia, Karabakh has been fought over for centuries. This lush, green mountainous region is made up of unexplored forests, timeless villages, and two cities that were once capitals in different ages. In short, a last, unforgettable paradise. Over the centuries, Karabakh was roamed by nomads from the east, who preferred to make its gardens and orchards into pastures for sheep and goats. Little has changed from the country of 2,000 years ago, when it was inhabited by the first Christian ethnic group of sedentary farmers and herders. The photographs by Graziella Vigo tell of a still-visible original peasant life. The women carry the burden of history, while in some villages inhabited by Greeks, the men seem to be direct descendants of the heroes of the stories

Graziella Vigo, born in Milan, has specialized in fashion photography at the International Center of Photography and then in black-and-white portraiture with Robert Mapplethorpe. Long journeys to China, India, and Armenia have given rise to her books and personal exhibitions in Italy and the United States.

Fantastic book with great photographs. Artsakh (Karabakh) is one of Armenia's most beautiful regions.

Karabakh is internationally recognized territory of Azerbaijan. Why the hell author describes it as Armenian land?! Armenia occupied Karabakh with the help of Russia, and this problem is still ongoing. Do not read this book, because it is biased, serves national interest of Armenia and Russia.
