I liked this book and its concepts so much that I always keep at least a handful around to give as spontaneous gifts. A quick and easy read, but well worth the time. I found myself thinking about it for days afterward...and my finances have never been more blessed. Highly recommended.

I found the book extremely helpful because it so extremely practical. It is for EVERYBODY - there is nothing in it that excludes anybody. It is simple - but it does mean taking simple steps of faith. It is not hard to start putting something aside. If God's Word doesn't help us get out of financial difficulty into financial blessing, it means that the world has more to offer than God. Either we live by faith in every aspect of life, or we become faith schizophrenics - trusting God to get into heaven, but trusting the world and its ways to provide finances. I know a lot of Christians struggle with the thought of financial prosperity, but we are foolish not to believe that God wants us to financially prosper. I know plenty of Christians who get irate about God and prosperity - but I have never met one who knocked back a pay rise from their unbelieving boss! Al's book really helps us to get a God perspective on prosperity. After all, God's perspective is the only one that counts.

This book brings in some overlooked insight to God's word on how to be prepared for those days of lack both in and outside of the church.

God says in His Word that His people perish because of the lack of knowledge. This book has helped me realign my priorities. The principle that God will not trust me with more unless I am faithful to manage well that which He has given me, finally dropped into my spirit. I was also encouraged to identify many good practices I already employ in my finances, but the principle of storehouses is what I was missing. I thank God for leading me to this book at this time in my life, and thank the authors for their obedience to put in practice what God has taught them, and to share their experience.

Wow! I'm in awe of what God wants to do in our lives as Christians. The revelatory wisdom that is released when going through every page of this book is beyond human comprehension. My life, my family, ministry and community will never be the same because now my eyes are opened. I'm super excited about what God is about to do. I'm willing to obey his word. This will benefit me and many generations to come. Every human being needs to know this truth. Thank you Jesus!
